

<https://fintechordics.com/job/senior-product-analyst-at-credewire/>

Senior Product Analyst

Description

Join Credewire, and be the change-maker in our ambitious journey as our new Senior Product Analyst.

What do we do?

Credewire extracts and structures financial data in real-time from ERP systems to automatically deliver new insights to companies, banks, and auditors. We organize the data to be able to compare financial KPIs against peers – all the time, not only once a year. We build and deliver solutions that makes it easy for the company and its bank and auditor to create a budget. And much more. Our vision is to help companies on the path towards better financial performance.

As we anticipate the onboarding of over 40,000 new users and an upscaling of our organization in 2023, we're seeking a highly skilled and experienced Senior Product Analyst to join our dynamic team.

The role:

As the Senior Product Analysis, you will play an important role in our growth. You will be a part of a strong team of data specialists and help the team design custom solutions for our customers in Denmark and abroad and spearhead the continuous enhancement of our services. You will at the same time take lead in validating and improve our existing services based on validations performed and customer feedbacks.

This role will challenge you to apply your financial expertise and interest in global accounting practices to revolutionize the way companies and their advisers interact with data.

You will work closely together with team members in Product and Analytics as well as our Development team and other parts of the organization.

Responsibilities

- Design, implement, and enhance financial solutions based on customer needs.
- Transform financial data into actionable strategies.
- Plan and coordinate the task assigned and secure the execution of these.
- Validate and improve existing service continuously.
- Develop new work processes if relevant for optimization of our work processes.

Qualifications

- Educational: Cand. Merc. Fir, Cand.Merc Aud, Cand Merc Mat, Cand Oecon, Cand Polit, HD (accounting/finance), or related field.
- Fluent in Danish.

Hiring organization

Credewire

Credewire is a Fintech company located in the centre of Copenhagen and about to open offices in Sweden and Holland. We have a flat organization and encouraging our employees to bring new ideas to the table.

Employment Type

Full-time

Job Location

Denmark

Date posted

August 17, 2023

Apply

- Excellent in spoken and written English
- Strong communication and collaboration skills
- 2+ years of experience in product analysis or a related role.
- Adept in accounting with strong Excel skills.
- Demonstrated ability to handle large data sets.
- Proficiency in SQL, AWS, Python or similar tools.
- Strong problem-solving skills and attention to detail.
- A structured approach to work, with a willingness to take responsibility.

As a successful candidate:

You should be interested in working in a start-up where you have the possibility to grow with a promising next-generation Fintech company and quickly become a valued member of the core team. You are the type who wants to go “above-and-beyond”.

Job Benefits

- A great chance to work with a highly professional team.
- A professional and informal work environment.
- A steep learning curve with interesting opportunities.
- The possibility to learn or introduce new data-driven technologies.
- Great office in centre of Copenhagen.
- Pension plan
- Bank advantages
- Monthly Crediwire dinners
- Crediwire – the people behind and around the company
- Crediwire is run by and advised by some of Denmark’s most prominent businesspeople